Tutoring Experience

I started tutoring in 2021, focusing on IGCSE Maths and supporting students preparing for A-Level and IB exams. I've worked with students across Europe and Asia, helping them tackle complex mathematical topics like calculus, trigonometry, and statistics. My background in applied mathematics allows me to provide real-world examples that enrich the learning experience.

Through my work, I've helped students improve their grades significantly within short timeframes, including achieving A* predictions and excelling in challenging coursework. My sessions focus on building confidence in foundational concepts, ensuring long-term academic success for all my students.
